Montgomery County, Virginia – Public Information has won a 2012 Hermes Creative Gold Award for the submission of Montgomery County's Fiscal Year 2011 Annual Report.

According to hermesawards.com, “Hermes Creative Awards is an international competition for creative professionals involved in the concept, writing and design of traditional materials and programs, and emerging technologies.” The competition receives entries from across the nation and the judging is overseen by the Association of Marketing and Communication Professionals (AMCP).

Montgomery County's multimedia publication highlighted accomplishments by County departments and constitutional officers using a cloud-hosted program called Prezi, an interactive presentation tool. The office has also won a Silver Summit Award from the Blue Ridge Chapter of Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) and a Gold Award from MarCom Awards – both for the Fiscal Year 2011 Annual Report.
